Reflection: There were about 57,321,000 deaths in the world in 2015, as estimated by the World Health Organisation - about 8 deaths per 1,000 population. In Ireland, there were 29,952 deaths registered in 2015 - about 6.5 deaths per 1,000 population. How many of these could be termed 'avoidable'? Does Irish society today show a greater level of care for human life than it did 50 or 100 years ago? What about worldwide society? - Padraig McCarthy, The Furrow, September 2016.

Sunday 20th November 2016 marks 'World Day of Remembrance for Road Traffic Victims', this gives us an opportunity to remember those who have died on our roads and the families., friends and communities who have been devastated by their loss and also we remember those who have survived with life altering injuries.
